Candidates Square Off in First Debate

By Andree A. Belisle

MILLBURY - A Millbury Republican Town Committee sponsored debate between Representative Paul Kollios (D-Millbury) and his challenger in the November election, Independent candidate Alan Tuttle, was attended by nearly 200 on Friday, September 7.

Following opening statements by both Kollios and Tuttle, four representatives of the press proceeded to question the candidates on issues ranging from the paving of the downtown parking lot in Millbury to welfare for illegal aliens.

The first question posed to both candidates asked if they would be in favor of limiting the term of office for legislators. Tuttle replied, "I think we have seen through the years, people are in office longer and longer. Once they get power they seem to forget the people who put them in office. I believe there should be a limit. In doing this, we will lose some good legislators, but unless we continue to get fresh blood into the system it is never going to continue to work. Our forefathers never intended the job of a state legislator to become a lifetime job. It was almost a duty to go off and serve your state and then go back to your community and let somebody else take your place."

Kollios said he does not believe there should be a limit and offered two reasons why: 1. "The idea of limiting terms limits your rights," he said. "It detracts from democracy. It tells you that if you want somebody you can't vote for them anymore. 2. If you do see someone doing well, not only can you continue to support him you probably will see more results. It takes some time to learn the ropes."

The candidates were then asked what specific programs and policies they would advocate to reinvigorate the Commonwealth's sluggish economy.

Kollios replied that it would take national interest to reinvigorate the economy on both the local and national level. "I would support, because the fiscal problems are so severe," he said, "a tremendous downsizing of government, cuts in personnel additional from ones we've already cut, streamlining our agencies, consolidating many of those, decreasing salaries, reducing those of certain levels. Most of all, identify additional federal funds.

Tuttle, like Kollios, said he would downsize government. He also said that government has to be completely restructured. "Make every department in the state substantiate every job in the state," he said. "In Human Services, which my opponent is chairman of, we would begin an audit program. They control almost 1/3 of the entire state budget and only 4-6% of this budget is audited."

Tuttle also referred to "07" accounts. "These (07) are contractors who work for the state," he said. "There are so many abuses that haven't been taken care of. When you only audit 4-6% of an almost $4 billion budget, you've got a problem."

"Someday," Kollios rebutted, "somebody is going to tell us what they mean by 'downsize'. They're going to have to give us some detail and tell us specifically what that means. The government of the state has, since 1988, started to curtail some of our programs, to reduce accounts, reduce spending and reduce personnel. We have fewer personnel in our agencies today than we did in 1982....Over the last two years, we've reduced people by 5,000."

The candidates were then asked if they favor any reforms in Prop. 2 1/2.

Tuttle referred to Prop. 2 1/2 as democracy at work. "Proposition 2 1/2 is one of the most successful things that has ever happened in the state," he said. "The message of Prop. 2 1/2 was to reallocate tax dollars. People were sick of the property owner paying a full share of everything. If it weren't for prop. 2 1/2 the average person in this room would be paying a lot more in taxes than they are. Unfortunately," he added, "Prop. 2/12 has never worked as well as it should have. After 2 1/2 was put in, our economy started to pick up. The idea of 2 1/2 was to make state and local government more efficient. State government got more and more money and they gave the towns more of our money back, but they didn't restructure; they continued to overspend."

Kollios said that, for the most part, he would leave Prop 2 1/2 untampered with, "with the possible exception of a discussion of whether we should alter the 2 1/2 and index it to an average of a certain number of years' CPI growth. I want everybody to understand that in 1981 when Prop. 2 12 was passed," he said, "the amount of local aid back to cities and towns throughout the whole Commonwealth was about $1.3B. That figure now is over $3B with additional indirect local aid having been picked up by the state over the last couple of years."

Tuttle rebutted, "I'm glad my opponent has changed his stance over Prop 2 1/2. I was looking at an article in the Worcester Telegram & Gazette the day after 2 1/2 went into effect. My opponent was quoted as saying, 'The people wanted to cut services, let them decide where to cut.' The people never wanted to cut services," Tuttle said. "We need our services and we can do it with 2 1/2." Tuttle then said "local aid" should be referred to as "revenue sharing," "because it's our money coming back."

The question was then asked if across the board cuts are the most equitable way to handle cuts or would the candidates prefer to look at programs individually.

"Across the board cuts are not satisfactory," Kollios replied. "It's something we had to do to get that budget passed this past year."

Tuttle said that to have the legislature say at the last second that 4% across the board cuts had to be made was "the coward's way out. The way to cut costs is analyzing each budget," he said. "The house leadership has had so much control that they forgot to do their job. This state is very poorly mismanaged. The financial world didn't give us the financial rating they did because we're superstars."

Tuttle was then asked how he could be an effective legislator if he could not devote full attention to the many problems he said occurred during Kollios' watch? The question referred to previous statements by Tuttle that he would have to supplement his income as a legislator.

Tuttle replied, "I'm married, have four children, two currently in college, married for 28 years, for about 18 of those 28 years besides my full time job I have supplemented it with other income. As your state representative I would do the same thing. I will supplement my income, it's the only way I can support my family," he said. "I pay property taxes in this town, my opponent doesn't. He probably doesn't realize what it costs to raise a family. I will be your full time representative but I will supplement my income." Tuttle also referred to those months when the legislature is not in session.

"When the house is not in session it doesn't mean you don't work," Kollios replied. "We work on legislation....you do your work not in chamber but in committees in your offices. You have meetings, you have to do that on a full time basis. Other people in the legislature are married and have families but they don't have outside income. Over half the legislature has no outside income. I don't believe you can be an effective legislature working part time. I don't think anybody should be seeking this job to supplement their income."

Run the State Within Its Means

To the Editor:

It is time the citizens of Auburn, Millbury, and Oxford were represented by a person who understands the problems facing most of us today.

Alan Tuttle is running for State Representative from the Seventh Worcester District. Alan is married and has four children (two in college), has a mortgage payment each month, pays a property tax and understands what it means to live within his income. The incumbent Representative has none of these expenses and has consistently voted to increase our taxes, rather than cut unnecessary State spending.

It is time to vote for a change and elect a Representative who will vote to run the State within its means.

Kraus is True Reformer

To the Editor:

Dick Kraus should be the next Treasurer of Massachusetts. Kraus is the most qualified candidate in either party. Kraus holds a Ph.D. in economics from Harvard University. He has fifteen years of upper-level administrative and managerial experience outside of State Government.

Dick has a mission to end the much publicized deals and political patronage associated with the Treasurer's Office. He will clean up the mess.

In his career inside and outside of government, he has taken important, independent and politically courageous actions.

Kraus knows that our hard earned money is not being looked after in the most professional manner. This costs us, the taxpayers, money and decreases funds available for education and other important services.

Kraus' unique experience and stance as a true reformer also make him the best bet against a less qualified Republican opponent.

Please vote for Dick Kraus on September 18.

Vote for a Change

To the Editor:

The voters of the seventh Worcester District will have a clear choice when they elect their State Representative in November.

Alan Tuttle has indicated that he would oppose all new taxes until cronyism and waste are eliminated from State government.

The incumbent, on the other hand, has a record of voting for all of the leadership's tax proposals, including a retroactive Capital Gains tax last December. (Only three other legislators from Central Mass. voted with him.)

The incumbent is also on record as a supporter of the furlough program for First Degree murderers and Welfare benefits for illegal aliens. Alan Tuttle has stated that he is in opposition to both of these.

Look at the record and vote for a change this November.

Urges Vote for Bellotti

To the Editor:

In the midst of our State fiscal crisis and as our overall economy continues to sag, I feel compelled to express my feelings on the upcoming Gubernatorial Election. The Primary Election on September 18, and the General Election will greatly impact the quality of our lives locally. Through prudent fiscal management and selective economic development, Town Government can continue to control its destiny to a degree. However, in order to maintain a high level of essential local services, such as education and public safety, we must have effective leadership from the Governor's office. Without proper leadership from the new Governor, we won't be able to overcome the current fiscal crunch and the general downward trend in our state economy.

I believe that Francis X. Bellotti is the candidate for Governor who can rebuild our faltering economy and lead this state back to our traditional position of prominence. I have had the opportunity to speak to the candidate and have read many of his position papers. Particularly encouraging is his comprehensive fiscal fitness plan for Massachusetts Government. He has developed a creative agenda for economic growth and educational reform. Bellotti's proposals are the type of substantive initiatives that are needed to get Massachusetts back on its feet.

Frank Bellotti's leadership will reflect pride, common sense, fiscal responsibility, compassion, and integrity. Additionally, Frank Bellotti has a proven track record as a fighter for the people of Massachusetts. As Attorney General, he fought for the elderly and saved consumers millions of dollars when he challenged the automobile insurance industry.

Frank Bellotti can restore the integrity and confidence that is lacking in government. He can rebuild our state economy and make Massachusetts the proud and prominent Commonwealth that we long for. I urge Millbury voters to vote for Frank Bellotti on September 18.

Millbury Selectmen's Meeting Digest

Board Asked to Address RV Complaint

By Edward J. Cooney

MILLBURY - The September 4 Selectmen's meeting was called to order at 7:00 p.m. by Chairman Jude Cristo.

Appointments

Selectman Roland Lachance brought up a memo regarding the appointment of an alternate to the Planning Board. The position was established by Town Meeting.

Cristo suggested that the appointment be considered after receiving approval of the article by the Attorney General. The position will be advertised and the appointment made in conjunction with the Board of Selectmen and the Planning Board.

Jug Handle

Cristo said the jughandle at Rte. 20 and the Millbury Industrial Park is being pursued with consideration being given to a temporary alternative of a signal light. He said that eminent domain proceedings by the state for land for the jug handle will take some time.

Center School

The board approved a fee schedule for rental of the gym area and a large and small classroom at the Center School. A motion to rent space to the Rev. Alfred Larson of the Hosanna Baptist Church and to the Lions Club, contingent on their carrying their own liability insurance, was also approved.

Larson said the church plans to use the classroom facility for a Sunday morning and evening for up to a yea Cristo told him to meet with Administrative Assistant Earl Chase to work out a tenant at will or similar arrangement for use of the facility.

Water Rights

The board will review which gates and spillways will be part of the sale and deed to the town for the water rights to Lake Singletary and Brierly Pond. Lachance questioned whether the gates under the old thread mill across from Brierly would be part of the deed.

Police Business

The board met with Police Chief Ron Stokowski, Sgt. Glen Parath, local Police Union President Tom Hall and Attorney Joseph Sandula to discuss the issue of leaves of absence for union duties. The board was also asked to approve a two day unpaid leave of absence for Hall.

Cristo said the board would not negotiate on allowing police personnel leaves of absence for union duties but would listen to any of Parath's concerns. He said the board would look at the broader aspects of the issue with the Personnel Board and see if all parties could develop a set of criteria that would be agreeable to all.

Parath said he was a former president of the local, is now a regional director of the National Police Union and also the State President. He said he has received the board's approval over the past six years, totalling 34 days, for unpaid leaves of absence and there had never been a problem until this past year when the board voted to deny a request for an unpaid leave of absence to attend a national convention for union business.

Parath said he used two comp days and that there was no overtime required to cover his absence since each shift was adequately covered. "I'm not sure what happened that would indicate to the board that it would cost the town overtime." He cited occasions when a police officer is on vacation or a personal day is used to show that the shift coverage is adequate.

Parath said there was another possible alternative whereby the union could pay for another patrolman covering an officer's absence. He noted that Stokowski indicated that there was a state statute that would not allow that kind of arrangement. For the union to pay could amount to a perception that a police officer could be unduly influenced by others.

Attorney Sandula noted that in other communities the town is reimbursed. He said the town could be paid in advance for the day or days off. "Now the town is paying them, not a private party. You are in control of him. Obviously the concern is that someone else is influencing him by paying the officer directly. This obviates the problem."

Stokowski said his concern was that the money goes to the General Fund and not into the department's salary account. Sandula said that the police department budget would be no worse off.

Stokowski said that at some point in time the police budget could be affected although not necessarily in the present case.

"If a shift does require overtime then the request does not have to be approved to let someone go," Sandula said.

Cristo cited the possibility of more than one person requesting time off for union responsibilities such as Ed Perry who is secretary/treasurer of the state organization.

Parath said he did not see that as a problem as Perry would be taking a couple of vacation days for the state convention.

Cristo said it was a good reflection on the Millbury department that two of its people are involved at the state level but he also raised a concern that the board has concerning the number of people that would

Town Planner Discusses Development Trends

By Alec G. Belisle

SUTTON - The full Board of Selectmen met on September 4 at the Sutton Town Hall.

Classification Hearing

Assessor Nicholas Nunnemacher read a letter from the Board of Assessors asking them to postpone a Classification Hearing to Tuesday, September 11. The letter read that on July 31, requests were sent from the assessors to the Town accountant, Treasurer and Administrator reminding them that they must provide certain information in order for the assessors to complete their information for the Classification hearing, complete the Y Recapitulation sheet and therefore set the tax rate.

The letter stated that the FY 91 Reevaluation was completed ahead of schedule and the certification process by the department of revenue only took two days and all the data in the assessor's office is up to date for setting the tax rate. "However," Nunnemacher continued, "we have not received the requested information and have been informed that we will not receive the information from the town accountant including the return of the recap sheets, until September 7. Without this information and the forms, the tax rate cannot be set and the bills cannot be printed."

The letter also said that delays from those departments "mean borrowing and interest charges - money thrown away by the town."

Nunnemacher said the assessors do not want to speculate on the tax rate and jeopardize their credibility.

Blois explained that the delay was caused by the final distribution of state aid from FY 90 which was not received until August 18. He said that prohibited the accountant from closing out his books and balancing his books with the treasurer.

The board unanimously voted to continue the hearing until September 11.

Development Trends

Town Planner Gary Reschke was present to discuss a memo he sent to the board on development trends in Sutton.

At the outset, Chairman Mary K. Connor said that apart from answering questions which the selectmen might have with respect to his memo, "I think, Gary, that you're asking for the board to make a commitment as to what direction we want you to go."

Reschke explained that his intention was to give development trends as they relate to Sutton and to furnish suburban growth patterns since Sutton is on the fringe of a suburban area. He said that location and regulations have the greatest impact in terms of growth because these factors deal with what is allowed in town and what the town has to provide by way of infrastructure.

Reschke explained that there was a community need for economic development to balance the tax base in order to insure that the town had funds available to be able to provide for services needed by the residents. He said his report suggested several alternatives which would allow the town to do this. One of the options which he did not recommend was "estate zoning" which would be in effect more restrictive and stratifies the community.

Another option is to broaden the tax base with commercial and industrial development. He said that the phrase "industrial development" evokes certain negative images of strip shopping centers and polluting heavy industry, but he cautioned that the town did not need to permit the negative development to broaden the tax base.

Reschke then said he wanted to introduce some new concepts with respect to commercial and office development. Aside from the highway, strip mall development like those presently along 146, a "Commercial Village" can be created entirely by the private sector but "more often it is done with other development," he said. The commercial aspect of this plan requires day labor in order to allow the commercial aspect to succeed, and so there is usually an office complex associated with it. He also said that roads, sewers, water and other utilities, have to be available.

Reschke spoke next of "Mixed Use Development" which he said also includes office, commercial/retail and other development along with it. The Edgerton Development being proposed for South Sutton is an example of this type of development. He explained that the office use will support the commercial development that will be included. This, he pointed out, is what makes this type of development stand out and makes it more attractive to large firms. Reschke spoke of the variety of arrangements that these developments can take which use the land more effectively, emulating a village center or maintaining open space.

Reschke discussed the necessity of a Master Plan which would determine the direction Sutton wants for development, particularly along the Rt. 146 corridor. He suggested that Sutton might want to expand the scope of the plan since there is interest in neighboring communities to coordinate activities. He stated that grant money might be available for this type of cooperation.

He also advised that a close look at Rt. 146 would be productive because "it would in essence be a kind of economic development plan for the town because route 146 is where much of the economic activity is going to be taking place."

He added that the town must foster its historical and cultural potential and that that should not be minimized.

Reschke referred to former Shared Town Planner Ted Brovitz's outline for a Master Plan which he said "was very do-able" on an in-house basis in 12 to 18 months. He advised the board to take some of the points he had brought up if they decided to do the master plan in-house rather than hiring an outside consultant.

Selectman Mike Chizy said he was in favor of updating the last master plan and would like to see other town boards use it as they discharge their responsibilities. "We had a good master plan 25 - 30 years ago and very seldom use it. A lot of the things in the old master plan are applicable today," he said. "I think we have the right blend of people on the boards now and I think the boards would use the new master plan."

Reschke agreed with Chizy, saying that he used the master plan but that many things had changed over the past twenty-five years, making some of it obsolete.

Selectman Wally Johnson commented, "One of the problems with it (the master plan) is that nobody adhered to it to start out and particularly with 146." Johnson explained that former consultants had stressed the need for an access road which was not considered as Rt. 146 was developing. "Now it's too late," Johnson said.

Reschke presented three options for access roads. When asked if he would be willing to do a master plan, he said he would if the board was aware of the limitations of having an in-house master plan done. He said that without a consultant, the board would be relying on the expertise of one individual, but added that he would reach out to other professionals when available.

LaBonte asked Planning Board Chairman Scott Paul if his Board would prefer to see Reschke devote his time to a master plan update or hire a consultant to do the master plan and have Reschke perform other planning related activities?

Paul said he would prefer that the town vote $50,000 for a consultant, but if the $50,000 is not available, he said he would like to see Reschke do a master plan with a focus on Rt. 146 before the larger parcels of land get split up.

Nick Moran a member of the planning board didn't entirely agree with Paul saying that Reschke has given the board only a year commitment and if he was to leave this would leave another six months left of work to complete the master plan. "I want to see this through to fruition."

Long Awaited Legislation for Libraries

BOSTON - On June 8, Governor Michael Dukakis signed into law a significant piece of legislation for Massachusetts libraries. "An Act Relative to the Theft and Mutilation of Library Materials and Property" was enacted to deal with the rising incidence of the theft and mutilation of library materials and property. It is the intent of this law that the prosecution of crimes affecting books or other library property is executed with the same degree of diligence as is exercised in the prosecution of crimes affecting all other forms of property.

The law, which became effective on September 6, includes the following components:

- Broadens the definition of the types of library materials and includes library property such as walls, wainscoting, buildings or rooms used for library purposes, bookmobiles, kiosks, and furnishings;
- Stiffens the fines and punishment for library theft and the mutilation of property and materials;
- Provides for the payment of replacement value of library materials or property including all reasonable processing costs;
- Provides for the punishment by fine of persons convicted of giving false identification;
- Provides for the punishment of persons convicted of the willful alteration or destruction of library ownership, electronic or catalog records;
- Requires libraries to post a sign giving a summary and explanation of the law.

The institute provided an intensive week-long introduction to the operation of a "microscale" high-school laboratory. Under the microscale concept, far smaller quantities of chemical substances than usual are used in experiments and demonstrations, resulting in both greater safety and lower cost. Bates College issued a certificate of attendance to teachers who completed the program.

Reschke said a master plan was most essential. He said that if a consultant was not feasible, the town could get a master plan done in-house.

Connor pointed out that it would take time for the town to appropriate the money to hire a consultant, then it would take time to choose a consultant with no guarantee that the consultant would do a good job. "I don't think you'd come in here and tell us you could give it a good shot if you didn't feel as a professional that you could," she said.

Paul told the board that the planning board would prefer having Reschke work on the master plan than have to concern himself with day to day activities.

Connor said she would like to see all members of the planning board on the master plan committee.

Reschke said he thinks that a full time planner is important for Sutton. "My objective would be to be here for the entire process. However, if that doesn't happen, you should keep in mind that this is an activity that's on-going and can be done by any other professional planner." He added that master plans follow a particular process which another planner could complete. He restated that it is his intention to be in Sutton long enough to complete the plan.

Old Business

Under Old Business, the board took a second vote on the Health Risk Assessment Committee which was discussed and voted at last week's selectmen's meeting.

The board voted 4 in favor, 0 opposed, with Johnson abstaining.

[The Chronicle neglected to include the amendment to LaBonte's motion for the creation of the committee in last week's article. Mary K. Connor offered the amendment and the final motion read, "A Power Plant Task Force Subcommittee be appointed to report to the Power Plant Task Force on a study of the state and federal guidelines, in particular to the 1990 Clean Air Act in relation to the so-called smoke stack industries, as further defined by the Power Plant Task Force and the Board of Selectmen if necessary...."]

From My Window on Farnsworth Court

Well, I just got back from taking my mother back to Canada where she came from many years ago. It was a beautiful trip, and we even went over to "The Island: Prince Edward Island, what other island be there."

Just a couple of observations from that trip. We didn't see any trash along the sides of the roads. Everything was neat and picked up. Our street departments do their best, but we are such slobs sometimes. Two things: don't throw it down, and if someone else has, pick it up.

Bottle and can redemption has helped a great deal to keep our streets clean and to recycle and save. I understand we are going to be doing more and more recycling ourselves. Just like during WWII when we cleaned our tin cans, took off the labels, cut off both ends, stuck the ends into the can, and stomped on the can and turned it in. We are in a battle for survival now almost as critical as WWII. That's the battle of resources and what to do with our trash. God gave us the resources and now it is up to us to use them wisely.

The other observation was that we didn't see the "shacks" we used to see in Canada. Both here and there this generation has worked very hard to improve their standard of living. They are to be commended for such diligence, but must also be warned that "pride comes before a fall." Sometimes we think we did it all and forget to thank the Good Lord who enabled us to live in such an exciting time. God bless you all, and remember to attend your place of workshop and give Him "thanks." Amen.

My Castle

By Everett Swenson

If I could build a castle tall
With stone and mortar for a wall
Surrounded by a watered moat
Where no one dared to cross by boat.

If I could dwell within its lair
And by my side a maiden fair
My world would be a living song
Where both of us would then belong.

I'd relish every hour we'd spend
For then I know I'd not pretend
To love her with such tenderness
That God alone would ever bless.

We'd live our lives so pleasantly
And bless the hours that were to be
With only stars to be our watch
Enjoying life we lived as such.

And then as life spent quickly past
The aging of our souls at last
Our presence seems to be no more
We'd enter into heaven's door.

be out at any one time especially in a small department the size of Millbury's.

Parath said his responsibilities have not been a problem in the past. He noted that he was a little surprised and disappointed that his last request for a two day leave was turned down.

Cristo said, "This is part of a bigger issue here as over the years it used to be just you (Parath); now there are several. We have to look at it holistically as to how it applies to your entire union leadership."

"It's not going to cost the town anything," Parath said.

Cristo asked what would happen if all three went to the state convention and no one could be found to fill their posts.

"Obviously, not all of us could go," Parath replied.

Sandula said he didn't think that would happen as the other men on the force realize their need to go and would make themselves available.

"They appreciate the importance of my presence at those meetings," Parath said.

Stokowski said that right now he has adequate staff to recommend to the board that Hall be given two days leave of absence.

Lachance moved to grant the leave.

Gauthier said he had a problem regarding requests for leaves of absence because a patrolman would lose two days of seniority. Parath said that was true as it is a new clause in the contract. He said Hall has no problem with that issue. Hall agreed since the nearest person in seniority is three years away.

The board voted 5-0 to grant Hall his request. Cristo said the board would want further discussion on the issue with some type of formal agreement.

Transfer Station

The board met with Paul Gabriel representing SEA Engineering, consultants on the transfer station. Gabriel presented a brief summary and rationale for submitting a bill for $11,000 beyond the original contracted amount for services. He also said that figure would be final.

Cristo mentioned some areas of concern shared by the board and the transfer station building committee which indicated some inadequacies in the engineering even though overall the work was satisfactory.

It was agreed that the board and the building committee would meet on an off night to discuss a counter offer.

Liquor License

Attorney Peter Keenan, representing Robert Gargulinski, owner of the premises on Rte. 146 that formerly housed the Parting Glass Pub, was present to continue with his client's request for a cancellation of the liquor license presently held by James Moore. The request was continued from the last meeting to allow Moore to attend and present any reasons why the license should not be cancelled.

Lachance read into the record a letter from Moore requesting an extension because of a previous engagement. Keenan agreed to the request to extend the time for his appearance to September 11.

Parking of Recreational Vehicle

The board listened to a complaint concerning the parking of a recreational vehicle by John Giblin on the front lawn of his 6 Bellville Lane property. Also present were Building Inspector Rene Morin and complainant Ron Larkham, also of Bellville Lane.

Morin explained that a letter was received on May 25, 1988 from Larkham stating that a recreational vehicle was parked on the front lawn at 6 Bellville Lane. "On July 1," Morin said, "Mr. Giblin was notified by my office that he was to remove the RV from his front lawn as there was a violation of town by-laws, and it was to be removed within 7 days. The vehicle was removed. I received a letter concerning the RV on November 4, 1988 indicating it (the RV) was on the front lawn. I told Mr. Giblin the RV was a registered vehicle and he could park it in the street or in his driveway providing it did not overhang 10 feet from the street."

Cristo asked what the problem was. Morin replied that the problem concerns parking on the front lawn.

Cristo asked if it is legal to park it in the driveway. Morin said yes, whether it is registered or not registered. He said the bylaw allows for two unregistered vehicles.

Morin said on May 22, 1990 he issued a cease and desist order and upon reinspection on June 8, 1990 the RV was not on the front lawn.

Cristo asked Giblin if he understood that the RV could not be parked on the front lawn. Giblin replied that the RV was not on the front lawn but was either in the driveway or the back yard.

Larkham said he lives directly across from Giblin and the RV is still on the front lawn and has never been moved all summer. "I've complained to the building department on a daily business, and we are finally getting to this point after reaching the selectmen's office," Larkham said.

Cristo asked Morin if he hadn't said he went down to Giblin's house.

Morin replied that the RV was in the driveway when he went down.

Giblin maintained that he has two driveways.

Larkham asked how one could be a driveway when it has grass on it.

Cristo asked how many driveway permits were issued. Morin said he would have to check.

Giblin said there was no curb and that the driveway in question has been there for the 30 years he has been there.

Larkham said he wanted to be sure that the quality of life and property values were maintained for residents in the area.

Cristo asked if the driveway in question is in fact a driveway. Morin said it probably is grandfathered in. He also said that there is no reference to RV's in the town bylaws, only to mobile homes.

"The question is, is he actually parking the RV on the driveway," Cristo asked. "We have had a problem like this in the past." He also said that people who own these vehicles should be aware of any adverse affect they may have on the neighborhood. "Apparently, being right on a lot line you could cause a problem for neighbors. We need to do some work on bylaws in respect to RVs and where they can be parked. I'm still concerned that we have two driveways here. This is the issue Rene," he told Morin, "and you are going to have to resolve that."

Morin replied, "If as he said he has had it (the driveway) there for 30 years, that's more or less grandfathered."

Larkham said the only difference now is that the trailer, rather than being parallel to the road, is now perpendicular and up against the fence of an adjacent neighbor.

Giblin replied that it wasn't against the fence.

The board voted unanimously to take the matter under advisement and to view the property.

Appointment

On the recommendation of the Directors of the Millbury Public Library, the board appointed Barbara Whittier to fill the unexpired term of Nancy Keenan who has moved to Sutton.

Tuttle rebutted, "A full time legislator I will be. I will supplement my income and I will not apologize for it."

Kollios was asked what action he has taken to deal with the town's unpaved municipal parking lot, with the tankers coming through the center of town because the bridges on Rte. 146 are unsafe, and with the intersection at Massasoit Road and Rte. 20.

"With respect to bridges, roads and highways," Kollios replied, "one of the reasons why we supported the recent gas tax is so that we could provide funds for those kinds of programs. The Department of Public works is understaffed, and it's going to be a while before those two sections you referred to will be addressed."

Tuttle argued that the gas tax already in place was supposed to have been earmarked for bridge and road repairs. "During the 'Massachusetts Miracle' they did nothing with our bridges and roads except let them deteriorate," he said. "We now have a new gasoline tax and we're being told by our same legislators that this time we mean it; we're going to spend that on bridges and roads. The governor is holding on to some $450M that could be used right now to get the bridge and road program underway. We would get matching funds from the federal government. For some reason he has chosen not to do it. The legislature hasn't pushed him to do it."

Kollios rebutted that during the 1980's, 2,000 of the State's more than 5,000 bridges were repaired. "There's still many more to be repaired," he said. "That rate (of repair) is a much higher rate than any other New England State. The bridges are still in disrepair and they need additional funds, which will hopefully also spur the economy.

"With respect to Rte. 20 and Massasoit Road," Kollios said, "that is under consideration right now with the Rte. 20 Task Force that we helped to establish and implement. The whole area is under discussion."

The candidates were asked if they support the proposed Citizens for Limited Taxation (CLT) proposal to roll back taxes and fees and how they would make up for the loss if the proposal were passed.

Tuttle said he is in favor of the proposal and, if it does go through, "it's going to give our legislature a long and clear message - they've had enough of mismanagement, it's time to restructure the government, go to zero-based budgeting, justify every job in the state."

Tuttle then referred to Kollios' statements that 5,000 state employees have been let go. "We all heard about how some of these people were let go," he said. "I can tell you of a state hospital where three doctors were let go and the employee who told me about it said they were back the following Monday as consultants. Most of these cuts that were made were the insignificant cuts. We lost two park workers at Purgatory State Reservation and they moved them up to Rutland. Ifou're going to restructure, take care of the hard worker, the social worker, we need these people. It's the middle and upper management people we have to cut. Take a look at Human Services, the 07 accounts."

Kollios said he was not in favor of the CLT petition. "That will roll back revenues for the state by $1.2 billion for half the fiscal year from January to next June. We're already very tight," he said. "The budget, because revenues are still slipping, is probably a deficit. You add that $1.2 billion to a $2 billion deficit the following year and $2 billion the following year. Mr. Tuttle will have to tell us specifically where those cuts will have to take place....We've cut programs and reduced services and reduced personnel everywhere. The driving forces such as medicaid and group insurance, our debt, our contractual obligations such as the MBTA, are rising at 89-95-100% in the last 2-3 years."

"The total state budget is more than $13B," Tuttle rebutted. "State spending between 1983-1990 increased by almost $6 1/2 billion, an average of $900 million a year. This was a 92% increase. We are mismanaging this state. We don't want to hurt the elderly or the infirmed, we want to help them. If we restructure this state we can save the taxpayer money and increase benefits."

The candidates were asked if they favor eliminating human service benefits and welfare benefits to illegal aliens.

"Illegal aliens do not get welfare benefits," Kollios replied. He said they may be eligible for general relief if they are disabled, elderly, over 45 with a very poor work history, mentally disabled, or full time high school students.

"Do I favor general relief?" he said. "If you're talking about an undocumented person who came over here from El Salvador or Ireland or Haiti due to the turmoil of their native land, escaping on a boat such as from Cambodia, and they're here and they have children or have babies, that baby's an American citizen, if they're sick or disabled, all I care is that they're able to get medical treatment."

Tuttle referred to the term "illegal." "Illegal means something to me," he said. "I believe in crime and punishment, and I believe if somebody is here illegally he should not be here. I was talking to a Brockton policeman who was shot by an illegal alien. This illegal alien's family was collecting one of the programs. If we're going to try to fund programs for the needy in our state, we've got to do everything we can. We've got to take care of the people that belong here first."

The candidates were then allowed to pose questions to each other. Tuttle said to Kollios, "Earlier you talked about your role in Human Services and all you've done for the elderly. With this in mind, it seem to be a shame that elderly going into nursing homes have liens placed on their homes. Something that's going to happen November 1, that many of the elderly don't know about, people in nursing homes currently get an allowance of $72 to pay for their clothing, toiletry, maybe a phone call to a grandson or granddaughter. As of November 1, this is being cut to $50."

Tuttle also said that he has received several phone calls from some elderly who are having rapid increases in their rents. "I made a call to Boston to find out what was causing it," he said. "I was told that to help the state's situation that the expense factor has been drastically changed. What are you doing for these elderly," he asked Kollios.

"First of all," Kollios replied, "the allowance that you refer to of $72 went to $72 because of the advocacy of Paul Kollios and his committee on Human Services. We pushed that legislation year after year. I probably am the most outspoken advocate for raising the personal needs allowance for elderly in nursing homes," he said. "I'm opposed to that cut to $50 but it adds up to millions of dollars; millions of dollars that $22. It's a savings. If you don't cut there, I don't know where else you're going to cut.

"When it comes to taxes for the elderly," he continued, "I've supported all along, knowing that we needed some additional revenue, an income tax. The reason is twofold:

1. you can deduct that on your federal tax.

2. it does not apply to many elderly and low income people."

Tuttle asked a follow up question on rents for elderly housing.

Kollios replied, "If you're talking about increases in rents they probably are incremental increments which take place occasionally and it's not something that anybody would want to impose on the elderly, but if we're going to have to raise tuition, make cuts, perhaps the Executive Office of Communities and Development are going to have to make small incremental increases. This representative has voted consistently to protect the elderly with respect to insurance rates and co-sponsored the Medex Freeze bill."

Kollios then asked Tuttle if he agreed or disagreed with a Boston Bar Association report. "With all the crime in our Commonwealth, with the increase in people going to jail, increase of sentencing, increase of drug trafficking, tremendous need for more courts, do you support the recommendation by the Boston Bar Association for additional funding for these programs?"

"Having not read the report, I am certainly not going to make a recommendation," Tuttle replied. He did say there was a need for more prison beds but added, "We don't need prison beds in New Braintree. That's become a political football and taken advantage of a little town. My opponent's friend the governor has done all he could to punish the town of New Braintree. We have facilities in this state that are going unused. Former state hospital buildings, former state schools, that could easily be converted to minimum security facilities, and then we could use some of the other prisons for maximum security."

Kollios asked Tuttle if he favors increased money for law enforcement and prisons and where he would acquire the funding.

"I certainly approve of improving our crime fighting," Tuttle replied. "One way to do this and save money at the same time is by consolidating police departments. Every-issued a cease and desist order and upon reinspection on June 8, 1990 the RV was not on the front lawn.

Cristo asked Giblin if he understood that the RV could not be parked on the front lawn. Giblin replied that the RV was not on the front lawn but was either in the driveway or the back yard.

Larkham said he lives directly across from Giblin and the RV is still on the front lawn and has never been moved all summer. "I've complained to the building department on a daily business, and we are finally getting to this point after reaching the selectmen's office," Larkham said.

Cristo asked Morin if he hadn't said he went down to Giblin's house.

Morin replied that the RV was in the driveway when he went down.

Giblin maintained that he has two driveways.

Larkham asked how one could be a driveway when it has grass on it.

Cristo asked how many driveway permits were issued. Morin said he would have to check.

Giblin said there was no curb and that the driveway in question has been there for the 30 years he has been there.

Larkham said he wanted to be sure that the quality of life and property values were maintained for residents in the area.

Cristo asked if the driveway in question is in fact a driveway. Morin said it probably is grandfathered in. He also said that there is no reference to RV's in the town bylaws, only to mobile homes.

"The question is, is he actually parking the RV on the driveway," Cristo asked. "We have had a problem like this in the past." He also said that people who own these vehicles should be aware of any adverse affect they may have on the neighborhood. "Apparently, being right on a lot line you could cause a problem for neighbors. We need to do some work on bylaws in respect to RVs and where they can be parked. I'm still concerned that we have two driveways here. This is the issue Rene," he told Morin, "and you are going to have to resolve that."

Morin replied, "If as he said he has had it (the driveway) there for 30 years, that's more or less grandfathered."

Larkham said the only difference now is that the trailer, rather than being parallel to the road, is now perpendicular and up against the fence of an adjacent neighbor.

Giblin replied that it wasn't against the fence.

The board voted unanimously to take the matter under advisement and to view the property.

Appointment

On the recommendation of the Directors of the Millbury Public Library, the board appointed Barbara Whittier to fill the unexpired term of Nancy Keenan who has moved to Sutton.

Rte. 146 Study Committee

Under Old Business, the committee voted 4-1 to expand the Rte. 146 Study Committee from the present seven members to nine members. Gauthier nominated James O'Leary, administrator of the John Marshall Carpenter Training School. The nomination received the support of Selectman Bernard Plante, who also serves as vice chairman of the study committee.

Lachance questioned the nomination until the board looks into the school's paying a $5,000 fee in lieu of taxes as it has in the past. "We should know where we stand on this," he said.

Committee member Peter Boria asked if it was appropriate to appoint someone to the committee who is not a resident of the town. He also said he knows two other people who are interested in serving.

Cristo said that people with a potential conflict should not be on the committee if their land or property is to be taken under either of the two Rte. 146 proposals. It was noted that possibly one half of the carpenter school property could be taken under one of the proposals.

Cristo said research would be needed to determine if there is a bylaw restricting appointments to residents.

Gauthier said that the board would be "cutting its own throat" by not appointing O'Leary.

Bleau said he didn't think there would be a conflict with O'Leary's appointment, and said he thought the purpose of the committee was for people in the area to express their corners.

Gauthier's motion to appoint O'Leary was defeated on a 3-2 vote with Gauthier and Plante voting in favor. Bleau said he voted against the appointment because he wanted to interview any new applicants before placing them on a committee.

The vote to expand the committee to nine members from 7 still stands with two vacancies still existing. Boria noted that the final report of the committee was expected to be turned in to the selectmen on October 1st.

Dog Complaint

Mr. and Mrs. Bratiotis of 90 Sycamore Street filed a complaint alleging that two dobermans belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Carlo Iannicchéri of 65 West Main Street are creating a disturbance at night by barking excessively.

The Iannicchéris denied the allegation and said that other dogs in the neighborhood also bark.

Dog Officer George Royal reported that on visits to the Iannicchéri property he saw no evidence of excessive barking or that the dogs are not being restricted. The board voted to take the matter under advisement and seek assistance from the police department regarding a possible disturbing the peace complaint.

Cristo noted that it is hard to document this kind of complaint. Royal suggested that when the police receive a complaint they pick him up so there could be verification.

Tree Removal

Cristo said the removal of large trees at Rogers and Greenwood Street would require a public hearing. He said that nothing much could be done to speed up that matter since the tree warden is an elected official.

Miscellaneous

In other matters, the board:

- approved a change of manager at the VFW to Frank Rano.
- approved a recommendation from Lachance to begin lowering the water level at Ramshorn on October 1st rather than November 1st, contingent on the Highway Surveyor's approval.
- approved turning the Youth Center into a Halloween Haunted House for Halloween.
- agreed to have Earl Chase look into bulk purchases for the town in cooperation with other communities.

Correspondence

Town Counsel notified the board that a possible claim against the town by the Paul Revere Condo Association should be referred to the town's insurance agent to instruct him to forward it to the town's comprehensive general liability and public officials' insurer.

A letter was also received from Attorney Adele Moroney concerning the estate of the late Thomas Hindley of West Main Street, consisting of 16 acres of land presently held under Chapter 61A. The letter notified the town of its right of first refusal for the property. Moroney said the town would have to meet the bid of $200,000 submitted by Hoel Construction Company Inc. of West Main Street. The board took no action.

Special Town Meeting

Prior to adjournment, the board voted unanimously to hold a special town meeting on October 9 at 7:00 p.m. at the High School for a petition requesting the town to vote to change the cap of $30,000 for a person retiring under the county retirement system.

body said it was a good idea until the time came, then the politicians started running and hiding and said we can't do that because we don't have money for uniforms. Let's go and manage the state, manage it by design, not by mistake."

Tuttle then referred to a letter Kollios mailed to his constituents in August, which stated that 88% of the sales tax was going to be paid by the business community. "Where do you think the business community is going to come up with this money?" he asked. "Don't you think they're going to pass it on to the consumer?"

"Yes," Kollios replied, "I think in some respects they will have to do that. I think 12% of the tax will be paid directly by the consumer; 88% will be imposed on commercial enterprises."

Tuttle asked Kollios if he had misled the recipients of the letters when he told them their average increase was $10. "It's going to be much more than $10," Tuttle said, "because any business that wants to remain in business is going to have to pass it on to consumers."

Kollios responded, "The information I gave was factual and from resources that I was able to glean with respect to our sources in the state house and the Mass. Taxpayer's Foundation. What I said in that letter is as factual as you can find anywhere."

Kollios then asked Tuttle what he would do to reduce the Medicaid account.

Tuttle called for auditing of the Human Services budget. "We have the entire human services budget which is tremendous, almost a third of the entire state budget, and we audit only 4-6%. We have 07 accounts, these are the human service providers. If they are under $100,000 they don't get audited. There are several human service providers that have several contracts, each one under $100,000. We're not auditing them. We've got to run the state like a business."

Tuttle asked Kollios why he was one of two legislators in Central Massachusetts who opposed Workfare. "How can you be against people who are collecting public assistance right now, who are able bodied, don't have young children in school, from going to work, taking some of the burden off society?"

Kollios replied, "I voted for the most recent so-called Workfare Provision which was a community work experience program. The vote that I voted against was an item put on an appropriations budget, an end of the year emergency spending brought up without a hearing offered as an amendment to this appropriations fund. A workfare provision, 32 pages long, copied from a Kansas workfare program." He also said there was a time limit on the debate. "It had no hearing, it was done late, and I voted against it because nobody knew what was in the amendment."

Kollios then asked Tuttle how he expected to be effective as an Independent candidate.

Tuttle replied, "When I get into the state house I will align myself with a group of Republican, Independent, and Democratic legislators who want to do away with the tax and spend philosophy and restructure state government."

"Besides voting as an Independent," Kollios said, "you will also be given assignments to committees. Will you be able to rise in stature on those committees as an Independent?"

"As an Independent I would probably never become a chairman," Tuttle responded. He also mentioned Kollios' Chairmanship of Human Services. "We have had a chairman in our district now for the past 2-4 years. I don't see where Millbury, Auburn and Oxford have benefitted at all from having a Chairman in our district. I think they would prefer somebody who would respond to them instead of to the party leadership."

Tuttle then asked Kollios why he voted in favor of cutting local aid. "Was it your feeling that fire, police, and education aren't important? I think you've got to realize that the property tax is regressive. What are you going to do to help the towns in your district from becoming the next Brockton?"

"I'll continue to strive to do what I can," Kollios replied. "I do understand that the property tax is one of the most unfair taxes in the world. I'll do what I can to alter that to provide some means for a constitutional change, some type of progressive tax, some kind of graduated income tax to get away from the property tax. In the meantime, I'll continue to strive to get additional local aid brought to these towns at which I've been very successful so far. The fact that we've provided the money to keep those vital services going fairly well in our three towns I think speaks well for the kind of achievement we've been able to accomplish."

"I wish you would stop referring to it as local aid," Tuttle said. "It's our money coming back. If we got into the situation Brockton is in, what would you do?"

Kollios replied, "I would go into consultation with the administration, the leadership of the house, of the minority party, local officials, and eventually request from the state that the town might be put into receivership for a short time to stabilize the situation."

Kollios then asked Tuttle what he would do to alter the terrible devastation of physical violence?

"We have to get tough on the criminals," Tuttle answered. "Our judicial system and our court system in Massachusetts are very lenient. People going to court almost laugh at what is happening. We've got to get tough on criminals and show compassion for the victims."

"You keep mentioning getting tough on criminals," Kollios said. "How are you going to pay for all the extra prisons?"

"We have several facilities in the state that could easily be converted to minimum security prisons," Tuttle replied. "We could then bolster up some of the other minimum and maximum security. It seems that in the last 8-10 years we have had to make the prisons better than college dormitories. Human services appears more concerned with the criminal that the poor victim."

Another debate between the candidates is scheduled for September 26 in Oxford at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Rte. 12. The debate will be sponsored by the Oxford Business Association.

The press: full court and one-on-one.

Charging. Dodging. Challenging. Guarding. One side on the offensive. One side on the defensive.

When the press faces off against public figures, it sometimes seems like a sporting event. But it's more serious than that. Because often, at the heart of the issue is the First Amendment. And its guarantee of a free press.

Some say the rights of the press should be taken away. They say the press goes too far. Sometimes even the press questions how far is too far.

Others say the rights of the press protect the rights of the people. Your right to be informed about things that affect your life and your right to decide.

The debate will continue.

But one thing is for sure. You won't always agree with what the press has to say.

And it's your right not to.

Beacon Hill Roll Call

This week's Beacon Hill Roll Call continues its report on previously unrecorded roll calls on amendments to the $13.4 billion fiscal 1991 state budget recently signed into law by Governor Dukakis. The bill number is H 5700. Votes are recorded for Representatives Richard Moore (D-Uxbridge) and Paul Kollios (D-Millbury).

PUBLIC COUNSEL - House 98-52, rejected an amendment reducing funding for public counsel services for the indigent from $42 million to $38 million. Amendment supporters said this will save $4 million and claimed there were abuses in this account. Opponents said this account has already been cut $7 million and noted the U.S. Supreme Court has mandated that indigents have legal representation. Moore voted for the $4M cut. Kollios voted against it.

HOUSING COURTS - House 106-43, rejected an amendment striking $174,800 for a Northeast Housing Court and 101-44, rejected an amendment striking $170,000 for a Southeast Housing Court. Amendment supporters said the state cannot afford these during the fiscal crisis and noted they were not in the original budget. Opponents said these housing courts relieve the burden of other overloaded courts and address slumlords and absente landlords. Moore voted for the cut on both roll calls. Kollios voted against the cut on both roll calls.

ADD SOCIAL WORKERS - House 79-73, approved an amendment reducing administrative costs in the Department of Social Services by $4.5 million and increasing funding for direct services by $3.5 million. Amendment supporters said this would save $1 million by reducing unnecessary administrative costs while adding some 170 social workers who will provide direct care. Opponents said "administrative" is a misleading term and argued the amendment would cut funding for many hard workers who provide invaluable services and a support system necessary for social workers to do their jobs. Moore voted for the amendment. Kollios voted against the amendment.

HEALTH SERVICES - House 103-52, rejected an amendment reducing funding for the Department of Corrections health services program from $29.2 million to $26 million. Amendment supporters said this would cut $3.2 million from an $11.5 million 07 contract which is full of waste and fat. Opponents said these are court mandated services provided by responsible low bidders. Moore voted for the cut. Kollios voted against the cut.

SPENDING - House 80-71, rejected an amendment prohibiting any department, agency, board or commission in the executive branch from spending more than one-twelfth of its budget dollars monthly for the first seven months of the fiscal year. Amendment supporters said this will insure that the Dukakis Administration does not spend the entire year's budget in seven months. Opponents said this amendment is too restrictive and does not allow for any flexibility. Moore and Kollios voted for the amendment.

5% CUT - House 89-66, rejected an amendment requiring a 5% cut in all 01 and 02 accounts in the executive branch and each constitutional office. The amendment also requires a 5% reduction in all funding for temporary and permanent positions in the legislative branch. The amendment exempts the Departments of Mental Health, Mental Retardation and Public Health. Another provision calls for the Secretary of Administration and Finance to prepare a list of specific cuts and gives the two Ways and Means Committees the power to review and amend the cuts. Amendment supporters said this will downsize a bloated bureaucracy and layoff 5% of management personnel. Opponents said the amendment is too broad and does not detail specific cuts. Moore voted for the amendment. Kollios voted against the amendment.

$5 MILLION ENERGY - House 126-28, refused to reconsider its earlier approval of $5 million in funding for the state's low income home energy assistance program. Reconsideration supporters said this was added without debate and should be fully debated. Reconsideration opponents said this $5 billion is essential and noted it is only one-third of what was funded last year. Moore and Kollios voted against reconsideration.

Another Point of View

The Environment ... Who Cares?

By Lawrence Moore

The power plant controversy in Sutton has been the catalyst for soul searching, investigation, study and action. It has led to a study to help me decide whether or not I, and each one of us, should be concerned or complacent about what is happening to our environment.

Coincidentally, watching several environmental programs on PBS, several produced by the National Geographic, and more than casual reading of the New York Times and the Wall Street Journal forces a realization of the importance of environmental news.

The Millbury Library contains a surprising number of books relating to the environment. In one of them, "The Next One Hundred Years" by Jonathan Weiner, I was led to open the Bible to the Book of Genesis and read in Chapter 1 verse 26, "God said let us make man in our image after our likeness; and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, AND OVER ALL THE EARTH." In verse 28 I read, "God said unto them be fruitful and multiply and REPLENISH THE EARTH." How prescient is the Bible and how blindly have we ignored this command.

For many years we didn't realize what we were doing, but for the last 30 years or so, since the International Geophysical Year of 1957-1958 we have been bombarded with evidence that we are destroying that which enables us to live. Scientific evidence has proven that Global Warming is taking place and still we continue to ignore, delay and counter the findings.

We continue to decimate the world's forests. Air pollution is defoliating 15% of Europe's oak, spruce and fir. When the oil scare of the early 70's subsided, the Government relaxed automobile mileage requirements in spite of the fact that many cities' air was not healthful to breathe. In contradiction to the evidence of danger in production, and consequent problems in the storage of waste, nuclear is continuing to be pushed as a safe alternative to our energy problem. In a neighboring town, permission has been sought to produce compost and mulch within 800 feet of a water supply well that is already closed because of chemical pollution. In the North Sea in Europe two years ago, and this month on the Mediterranean coast of Spain, seals and dolphins have died by the thousands because of overdoses of PCB's illegally dumped into the water. How soon will man have consumed enough of the PCB contaminated fish to kill him?

The "Clean Air Act," which is supposed to take effect this Fall, is to be a giant step forward in the attempt to slow the deterioration of our atmosphere. Still, the Wall Street Journal, in an editorial about the "Clean Air Act", concludes, "there are hardly excuses for enacting a public policy that drapes significant financial waste on an economy trying to compete globally."

What is the sense of having a thriving economy if those who create it are unable to live in it. We face the choice of paying $3.00 a gallon for gasoline or $1000 a day for medical care. I for one will pay any price to breathe clean air and drink pure water.

We are truly at cross-roads vis-a-vis the environment. We know enough about it now to know that the danger is real. We must learn to live within the only environment we have.

The environment ... all of us must care!

School Committee Approves Assistant Superintendent Opening

MILLBURY - The School Committee at its August 15th meeting was informed that Dr. David Troughton, Curriculum Coordinator, would be leaving the Millbury schools to assume the position of Assistant Superintendent in the Chelmsford Public Schools. Superintendent Alfred Sylvia recommended "that the Committee post the position of Assistant Superintendent in order to recruit the best possible candidate to assume the curriculum responsibilities that had been assigned to Dr. Troughton."

A press release from Sylvia's office stated, "Dr. Troughton's work was of an exceptionally high caliber as Curriculum Coordinator, and it is most important that the school system continue to improve the quality of all academic areas sequentially from pre-school to grade twelve. In order to continue the outstanding progress that has been made over the past several years in curriculum improvement, the committee unanimously approved the posting for the position of Assistant Superintendent of Schools."

A screening committee will interview candidates during the next two weeks. It is expected that the School Committee will interview finalists by the middle of September.

Emily Hoye, Pamela Gorczynski (two goals), Meaghan McLeod, Sarah Osterman and RoseAnna Wrenn (two goals) all contributed in the scoring column.
